Broken And Filled

George Whitten

And being in Bethany in the house of Simon the leper, as he sat at meat, there came a woman having an alabaster box of ointment of spikenard very precious; and she brake the box, and poured it on his head. Mark 14:3

This touching story of how Jesus was anointed before His crucifixion carries a beautiful illustration that has ministered to me time and again. I have wondered why the alabaster box needed to be broken when Mary could have simply opened it and poured out the nard; (extremely expensive and precious perfume which might have been Mary's dowry). One commentator said that she refused to use that box for any other purpose after anointing Him. That would make sense if it was Mary's dowry because it would be an expression of a bridal vow to Jesus and no one else. But whatever the motive in her heart, Mary's example speaks powerfully of the total devotion and commitment her soul had for Jesus, her will to give the best of everything she had; and it speaks of brokenness followed by anointing and its beautiful fragrance. So I believe this act is an illustration meant to encourage every devoted soul whose offering of herself brings circumstances which "break" her. The fragrance of perfume following the breaking "fills the room".

Broken people "smell" different. Their humility and love are an ambiance that is unmistakable. Being broken before the Lord affects everyone around...as the Apostle Paul taught in 2 Corinthians 2:15, we are a fragrance of Christ to God among those who are saved and those who are perishing; And Paul was a broken man. We should never be ashamed to be broken, even if we are criticized by those around us, as Mary was. The Lord's commendation of her has traveled around the world for 2,000 years and inspired millions of believers in circumstances that break them. God will not deny a broken heart and a contrite spirit. When we offer ourselves and our most precious things, whether they be material, personal, dreams, longings, loved ones, or our very destinies, on the altar of sacrifice, it is then that God's anointing will be greatest upon us. It will pour out of us like the ointment from that broken alabaster box — and His pleasure in us will "fill the room". Know that when you offer your best to the Lord your hard beautiful stone box will be broken, and after that, the fragrance of your life will be beautiful wherever you go. - www.worthydevotions.com

Cousin Leroy

A police officer stops Leroy for speeding and asks him very nicely if he could see his license. He replied in a huff, "I wish you guys would get your act together. Just yesterday you take away my license, and then today you expect me to show it to you!"

Shipwrecked

There were two men shipwrecked on this island. The minute they got on to the island one of them started screaming and yelling, "We're going to die! We're going to die! There's no food! No water! We're going to die!"

The second man was propped up against a palm tree and acting so calmly it drove the first man crazy. "Don't you understand?!? We're going to die!!!"

The second man replied, "You don't understand, I make $100,000 a week."

The first man looked at him quite dumbfounded and asked, "What difference does that make?!? We're on an island with no food and no water! We're going to DIE!!!"

The second man answered, "You just don't get it. I make $100,000 a week and I tithe ten percent on that $100,000 a week. My pastor will find me!"

When He Hath Tried Me I Shall Come Forth As Gold

Pastor Billy R Douglas

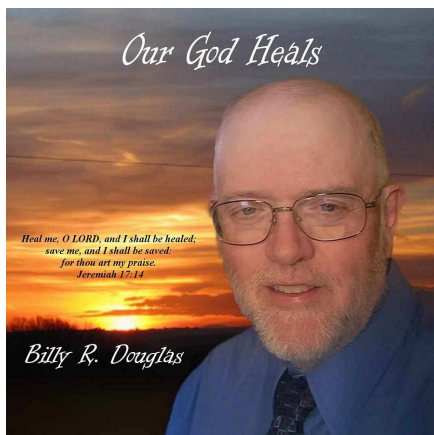

But he knoweth the way that I take: when he hath tried me, I shall come forth as gold. Job 23:10

First of all let me take a moment to thank each and everyone of you who have been lifting me up in prayer. It means so very much to me and I ask that you continue to remember me and my family in your prayers. Though I do not pretend to know all that Job went through. I certainly know the depths of the sorrow that I have felt these past weeks. And as I read back through the book of Job, I can relate to many of the truths that are found therein. More so now than ever before. I want to share the following notes from Matthew Henry regarding the scripture that I opened up with. I pray that they touch you the way that they have me...

Those that keep the way of the Lord may comfort themselves, when they are in affliction, with these three things:

1. That they are but tried. It is not intended for their hurt, but for their honour and benefit;
2. That, when they are sufficiently tried, they shall come forth out of the furnace, and not be left to consume in it as dross. The trial will have an end.
3. That they shall come forth as gold, pure and precious to the refiner. Approved and improved, those that go gold into the furnace will come out no worse

As I close I want to tell you about a NEW music project that I am working on. This project was completely unplanned by me, but ordained of the LORD. The title song is one that the LORD gave to me on one of my darkest days. A song of praise birthed in a season of pain. The name of the song is, "Our God Heals" and you can see more information about the project below. Please stand with me in prayer that the LORD will use it in a great way to bless others for His Glory! Until next time may the LORD bless and keep you, Pastor Billy R Douglas

A Word to the Wise – Wisdom's Way, Worth, and Weight of Judgment

Pastor Steven Huston

“Trust in the LORD with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths. Be not wise in thine own eyes: fear the LORD, and depart from evil.” Proverbs 3:5-7

Throughout the book of Proverbs Solomon regularly calls his son (and his readers) to remember godly teaching, cherish it, and apply God's instruction to his life – constantly reminding us of the blessings which follow obedience and the destruction that rebellion brings. Joseph Benson, one of the earliest commentators of Wesley's Methodism, introduced this third chapter thusly:

“‘This chapter,’ says Henry, ‘is one of the most excellent in all this book: both for argument to persuade us to be religious, and for directions in religion.’ We are exhorted to be constant to our duty, because it is the way to be happy, ver. 1-4. To live a life of dependence upon God, because it is the way to be safe, ver. 5-7. To keep up the fear of God, because it tends to health and comfort of body and mind, ver. 7, 8. To serve God with our substance, because it is the way to prosper, ver. 9, 10. To bear our afflictions patiently, because, if we do so, we shall be profited by them, ver. 11, 12. Highly to value, diligently to seek, and always to govern ourselves by the rules of wisdom, because it will be followed with continual peace and comfort, ver. 13-26. To do all the good we can, and no hurt to our neighbor, because in proportion as men are just and charitable, or otherwise, they shall receive of God, ver. 27-35. By which it appears, what a tendency true religion has to make men both blessed themselves, and instrumental of communicating blessings to others.”

I can offer no better advice than to read through this chapter with Benson's words in hand, recognizing the vast importance of Wisdom's Way (v. 1-12), Wisdom's Worth (v. 13-20), and Wisdom's Weighty Judgment (v. 21-35). In the remaining space, I'll give short comment on my three point outline.

Wisdom's Way: It requires complete commitment; we dare not walk indecisively in her path (James 1:5-8). If we will trust the LORD with ALL, refusing our own ways, God will give us sound direction and stable ground on which to walk. It brings us to a righteous fear of God, refusing evil – anything contrary to Him. If completely committed to her way we will be grateful for chastening (discipline) and correction (reproof), for it shows our sonship of the Heavenly Father.

Wisdom's Worth: Who can measure it? She brings continual contentment to the one who obtains her, both in this world and in that one to come (eternity). He who will diligently mine the treasures of God's Word will find both Wisdom and understanding, such which brings comfort beyond compare. Even though Wisdom is often learned and secured in adversity, She also blankets, with peace, those who hold her, by creating calm from our chaos, as God did at time's beginning. “As Wisdom changes human life from chaos to order so Wisdom functioned in the beginning.” (Edgar Jones)

Wisdom's Weighty Judgment: In recognizing that Wisdom's Way requires complete commitment and comes with the corrective-proof of God's love; in understanding that Wisdom's Worth is immense and immeasurable; we must come to a time of decision – judgment. To help us judge rightly, this final section continues to spell out her way (counsel regarding companions) and her worth (continual care for your path). We are called to consider what is at stake should we choose to not “keep (protect, guard) sound wisdom and discretion.” Before us is a warning to choose wisely by staying committed to Wisdom's Way, choosing her above all, and to deal carefully in our many relationships with others. We are even warned to not envy the wicked man because, in the last four verses, we see God's holy, righteous, decisive and weighty judgment upon both those who refuse and those who choose Wisdom's way. Particularly that of the last verse: “That is the consolation of the righteous, that in the end they will be honored by the Lord in the presence of the whole world; this thought enables them to bear many of the afflictions of this present time.” (Paul Kretzmann) And, “They shall be promoted, indeed, but their exaltation shall be like that of Haman, who was exalted when he was hung upon a gallows fifty cubits high. Their shame shall be conspicuous to the world, when they shall be covered with everlasting disgrace, and become an abhorring to all flesh.” (George Lawson). Adam Clarke closes out with this exhortation; “The way to prevent this and the like evils, is to attend to the voice of wisdom”.

Yesterday, Tomorrow, and Today

Pastor Steven Huston

Casting all your care upon him; for he careth for you. 1 Peter 5:7

John Fletcher once wrote, "Do not lose the present day by idly looking back at yesterday or foolishly antedating the cares of tomorrow; but wisely use every hour, spending them as one who stands on the verge of time, on the border of eternity, and who has his work cut out by a wise Providence from moment to moment."

It's easy to get bogged down by focusing on the wrongs, or perceived wrongs, of yesterday. It's just as time consuming to become paralyzed by the anxieties of tomorrow. Let's file these two things under the category of "time wasters." Getting "bogged down" or "paralytic anxiety" can overtake our minds on a global, national, or personal level, stealing from the present, today. That's not to say that none of our energies should be spent on searching for the truths of yesterday or attempting to correct its wrongs which can affect today or tomorrow, but neither should we ignore the blessings and needs of today.

1) We may get so bogged down with the last election that we hang our heads, thinking, "What's the use." Or we may be so anxious about the next election that we put all our hopes into a political basket. 2) The rapidity in which technology is advancing, privacy waning, and the seemingly daily revealing that our government and others are misusing this technology to spy on us can either drive us to apathy or neurosis. 3) Wars and rumors of war are constantly in the forefront or recesses of many minds. Regardless of whether it's a culture war, kinetic war, or unrestricted warfare that potentially steals our peace, sometimes it's difficult to move forward. 4) We may still feel the affects physically, emotionally, or even spiritually from the last Covid-19 "plandemic," but I urge you to neither get bogged down with the wrongs which took place nor become anxious about the next "plandemic" with which we are frequently warned. 5) Each of us have losses, trials, and temptations to deal with regarding yesterday and tomorrow. My point is this, although there are many responsibilities we have to God, friends, and family in regards to speaking and standing for truth, we must become spiritually strengthened through prayer, reading and applying the Word, and trusting in the Lord with all our heart. It's vital that we endure (spiritually) to the end. We ought not to be surprised by the numerous wrongs that take place here; Jesus warned they would come. We shouldn't be surprised by the strength we receive from the Lord; He promised to keep us and make His mighty power available to us.

Jesus encouraged us with these words: "Take heed that no man deceive you. For many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and shall deceive many. And ye shall hear of wars and rumours of wars: see that ye be not troubled: for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet. For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: and there shall be famines, and pestilences, and earthquakes, in divers places. All these are the beginning of sorrows. Then shall they deliver you up to be afflicted, and shall kill you: and ye shall be hated of all nations for my name's sake. And then shall many be offended, and shall betray one another, and shall hate one another. And many false prophets shall rise, and shall deceive many. And because iniquity shall abound, the love of many shall wax cold. But he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved. And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come." (Matthew 24:4-14) Be encouraged. It's sovereignly planned and we can endure by His grace. There IS an end. Holiness unto the Lord shall prevail.

We do not control yesterday or tomorrow, but by God's grace and strength we can control the manner in which we will handle this day. In the power of the Spirit, we can seek God's kingdom and His righteousness first and foremost in all that we do. (Matt. 6:33) With prayer and supplication we can watch with all perseverance. (Eph. 6:18) And we can refuse to be anxious about anything, "but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God." (Phil. 4:6)

Dear Reader, the Savior commands us, "Take therefore no thought for the morrow: for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." (Matt. 6:34)

VANITY Of VANITIES

Chasing The Wind

Brother Tyler Willis

"I have seen all the works that are done under the sun; and, behold, all is vanity and vexation of spirit." - Ecclesiastes 1:14

These are the words (or the teachings) of the Preacher, King Solomon (Ecc. 1:1). As he teaches, Solomon recalls the efforts that he has gone through to understand what man's purpose is, and he ultimately concludes that "all is vanity and vexation of spirit". This phrase "vexation of spirit" is an interesting phrase as there are two major interpretations - 1. That all things on earth is an annoyance to our spirit, and 2. That everything we do is like "chasing after the wind". The general consensus among biblical scholars is that this phrase is intended to mean everything is like chasing after the wind (which ultimately would lead to an annoyance of spirit!).

Consider this for a minute - the King concludes from all of his experience, all of his wisdom, and all records of worldly works, that everything man does is like chasing after the wind. Imagine partaking in such a futile effort! To try and grasp something which will ultimately slip out your hands, if you can ever really grab it at all! Previously the Preacher stated that "The wind goeth toward the south, and turneth about unto the north; it whirleth about continually, and the wind returneth again according to his circuits." (Ecc. 1:6). He says that it doesn't matter which direction the wind travels in, it ultimately returns to its original spot just to repeat the same path! If you tried to chase after the wind, you would find yourself running in circles!

So what's the point that the Preacher is making? How can we take this perspective and place it upon our lives? What Solomon intends for us to know is this - that anything we try to do with our lives here on earth (outside of what God has called us to) will leave us empty and chasing after more. Solomon wrote at an earlier point within this chapter that "...the eye is not satisfied with seeing, nor the ear filled with hearing." (Ecc. 1:8b) - no matter how often our eye views things, it never becomes satisfied and is always intending to see more things, and likewise our ears are never satisfied through hearing, but always desire to hear more sounds. For us to chase after the wind is to try and satisfy ourselves through earthly things that will never, and can never bring satisfaction to our souls. To try and find satisfaction through our job; our wealth; our families; our volunteer work; anything outside of God's purpose for us, is to simply chase after the wind - looking to accomplish something, but never accomplishing anything of purpose.

CHILDREN COMING AFTER US

“A good story is told by Dr. Johnson of a father hearing the voice of his child behind him as he was picking his way carefully along the mountain side. “Take a safe path, papa; I’m coming after you.” Ah! If older Christians, while passing along the rugged hill of life, would only remember that young Christians and children are coming on after them, how much more circumspect would they be concerning the path taken.”—Christian

Chronicle.

Are you watching your steps closely? Are they safe and secure in the holy way of Christ? Or are your feet on a slippery path oiled by the world, which could cause one of these little ones to slip into hell?

Perhaps you know this chorus; might it be your prayer: “Oh may all who come behind us find us faithful. May the fire of our devotion light their way. May the foot prints that we leave lead them to believe, and the lives we live inspire them to obey. Oh may all who come behind us find us faithful.”

A VERY FOOLISH AND DANGEROUS CHOICE

A teacher had been relating to his class the story of the rich man and Lazarus when he asked, “Now, which would you rather be, boys, the rich man or Lazarus?” One boy replied: “I will be the rich man while I live and Lazarus when I die.”

That may seem a cute answer to some, but isn’t that what multitudes are trying to do? All want to die the death of the righteous, after having lived the life of Dives.”

Dear Reader, I beg of you, do NOT presume upon the grace of God. For although we are saved by grace through faith and it is the gift of God, not of works, lest any man should boast (Eph, 2:8-9), we are to be transformed - a new creature (II Cor. 5:17) who lives and thinks anew. “For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them.” (Eph. 2:10)

Be warned, only a fool would choose to live a life for self and hope to find himself at heaven’s gates after walking through death’s door. Choose you this day whom you will serve, the One True God or the gods of this world?

The Cup My Father Hath Given Me

Pastor Nikki Corbin

Then said Jesus unto Peter, Put up thy sword into the sheath: the cup which my Father hath given me, shall I not drink it? John 18:11

Last night, I was teaching about Peter during Christ's crucifixion. I read about how at the arrest, Peter cut off a man's ear. Then Jesus said, "The cup which my Father hath given me, shall I not drink it?" I began talking about how often we fight the will of God in our lives. As I was speaking that, it hit me so hard.

To this day, I don't understand why we had to lose my husband Scott so early, but this is the cup that God gave me. If I could have prevented it, I would have. I begged God the whole time not to take him. And yet, for whatever reason that I don't understand, this is the cup God gave me. So, all I can do is trust Him.

I do believe we should believe God for healings and miracles. When you have a need, seek Him to move in it. But realize, sometimes the cup He gives you is not the one you expected or desired. Yet, you can still trust Him. Even when your miracle does not come, your healing does not come.... You can still trust Him.

Tune Out The World And Tune In The WORD

Pastor Mike Vaughn

My son, attend to my words; incline thine ear unto my sayings. Let them not depart from thine eyes; keep them in the midst of thine heart. For they are life unto those that find them, and health to all their flesh. Proverbs 4:20-22

When you are listening to the radio and you don't want to hear what is being broadcast on that station any more, what do you do? You change the station, right? You have made a decision to tune it out. The world is broadcasting doubt and fear daily. The result can be the loss of our Peace, Joy and victory.

We must make a decision to tune out the world and tune in the word. One important truth about God's word is that, it builds Faith in our lives and Faith is spiritual strength. If you are weak in Faith, then you will be weak spiritually. I encourage folks to listen to those things that will increase their Faith; and listening to Word based music, Gospel preaching and teaching does just that.

You can walk in Joy and victory daily. You can walk in God's presence daily but you gotta tune the world out and Tune the WORD in.

You are loved with an everlasting love, Pastor Mike

A Word for TODAY!

By Sister Michelle Deuling

Verse for Today: Romans 13:1 Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God: the powers that be are ordained of God. Additional passages for Today: Psalm 75:1; Daniel 2:21; Daniel 4:17 & 34-35

Thought for Today: If you truly trust God, you will show respect for those that He puts in authority.

Story for Today: Ralph eyed the sign with a look of contempt on his drawn face. More rules and regulations. It seemed that the school was always adding a new rule that ruined his day. Lottie and Maggie skipped up near the fence where the new sign that had recently been hung was drawing much attention and paused to read. DO NOT ENTER. "Looks like we will have to run around to the other gate. I heard that this one would be off limits soon," Lottie commented. "Coach Renz said that Principal Walters talked to him about it last week," Maggie added. "Well, I am not running all the way around to the other side. This is stupid!" spat out the livid Ralph. "They can see how much good putting up a stupid sign will do!" He added under his breath as he scaled the gate and vaulted over the top. The girls shrugged their shoulders and began to jog around to the open gate to enter the field. There were a few others that thought like Ralph and took the shortcut over the fence not respecting the authority of those that put up the sign on the gate at the football field. It wasn't long before the field was full of students for this event that the teachers and administration had put together for this special day. Coach Renz blew his whistle and called the kids to quiet as the leadership began to give out instructions. Principal Walters read off a list of names that included Ralph and the other guys that had climbed the fence ignoring the sign. Those students were all escorted to a room at the back of the concession stand.

"I know some of you have no idea why we chose to close off the north gate. I realize that not all students are aware of the chemicals that we have put down on the north end of the property. You all have endangered yourselves by exposing your skin to chemicals that are not meant for humans and you will all need to spend the next hour in the shower. I am sorry that you will not be able to participate in our activities today. You will need to wear these sweats to go home and bag up your contaminated clothes. We are providing you with flip-flops also. Your shoes will need to be thrown away." Principal Walters said as he made eye contact with each of the students. "You may not like the rules that those in authority make, but it is in your best interest to abide by them." He continued. Ralph thought about the lesson he had just heard at church the other day. Pastor Dan was talking about how God raised up those in authority. He also talked about how we are to be good citizens and live peaceably whenever possible. "I guess I really messed this one up." He thought to himself. If he had a problem with the new rule maybe he should have talked to God and then followed proper procedure to have the rule changed. He would have learned about the treatment and why they were closing the gate if he had done things right. And others that saw him jump the fence may not have rebelled if he had been a better example.

Questions for Today: Do you respect those that God has put in authority over you? Do you obey your parents, teachers, or others that your parents give authority over you? How do you show respect?

Prayer for Today: Heavenly Father, Thank You for being in control. Thank You that even when things don't seem right; when it seems like wrong is winning in our world, You are still on the throne and Your plan is being worked out. Thank You that we can trust You and You will take care of Your people even when it looks hopeless from the world's eyes. Please help us to be good examples of what it means to show honor and respect to those that You have commanded us to submit to. Please help us to remember that You raise up our rulers and You bring down those you desire to. In Jesus' Name, we pray. Amen.

God's Simple Plan of Salvation

My Friend: we are about to ask you the most important question of your life. Your joy or your sorrow for all eternity depends upon your answer. The question is: Are you saved? Do you know Jesus Christ as your personal LORD and Saviour? It is not a question of how good you are, nor if you are a church member, but have you put your faith in Jesus? Are you sure you will go to Heaven when you die? The Bible makes the plan of salvation plain and simple. Romans 10:13 says For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved. Call on Jesus today. Put your faith and trust in him and ask him to forgive you of your sins and to be your LORD and savior and you will be born again...SAVED!! Do this today, tomorrow may be too late! Please write or call us if you have made the decision to accept Jesus.
